

Case study: Halifax SC

Positively outstanding team work - coaches, committees, parents

“We are very clear about what the committee can impact and what is the remit for the coaching team. When new committee members join, this is the first thing we outline, then we can be straight from the beginning. This clarity of roles, along with an approachable and positive attitude has helped us build trust and mutual respect over the years.

The committee is very present at club sessions and this allows for regular informal communication between the coaching team and committee members and helps develop a good rapport with members. No decision is made in isolation, we discuss ideas, issues and work together to find solutions.

Like every great team we muck in to support each other in times of need. We have an amazing team at Halifax, we are truly blessed”
